The Court has held in the following cases:

- (1) Where a director is a shareholder in a company, the company is not liable for the director's actions if the director is acting in his capacity as a shareholder. See Re City Equitable Fire Insurance Co. (No. 1) [1893] 1 Ch 413. In this case, the directors of a company were also shareholders. The company was liable for the directors' actions in their capacity as directors, but not as shareholders.
